

Millions of Americans report allergic, immunologic, asthmatic and neurological reactions to perfumes, colognes, chemicals and synthetic fragrances. For these groups of people, just leaving their homes can mean risking the possibility of an exposure to chemicals in the environment. The Invisible Disabilities Association is an educational resource for everyone interested in learning how to lessen the chemicals in their own daily lives as well as to help public establishments become less threatening environments for people who experience mild to severe reactions to chemicals and synthetic fragrances. Please ban the use of toxic products inside polling places like air fresheners, diffusers, and fragranced cleaning supplies.
